

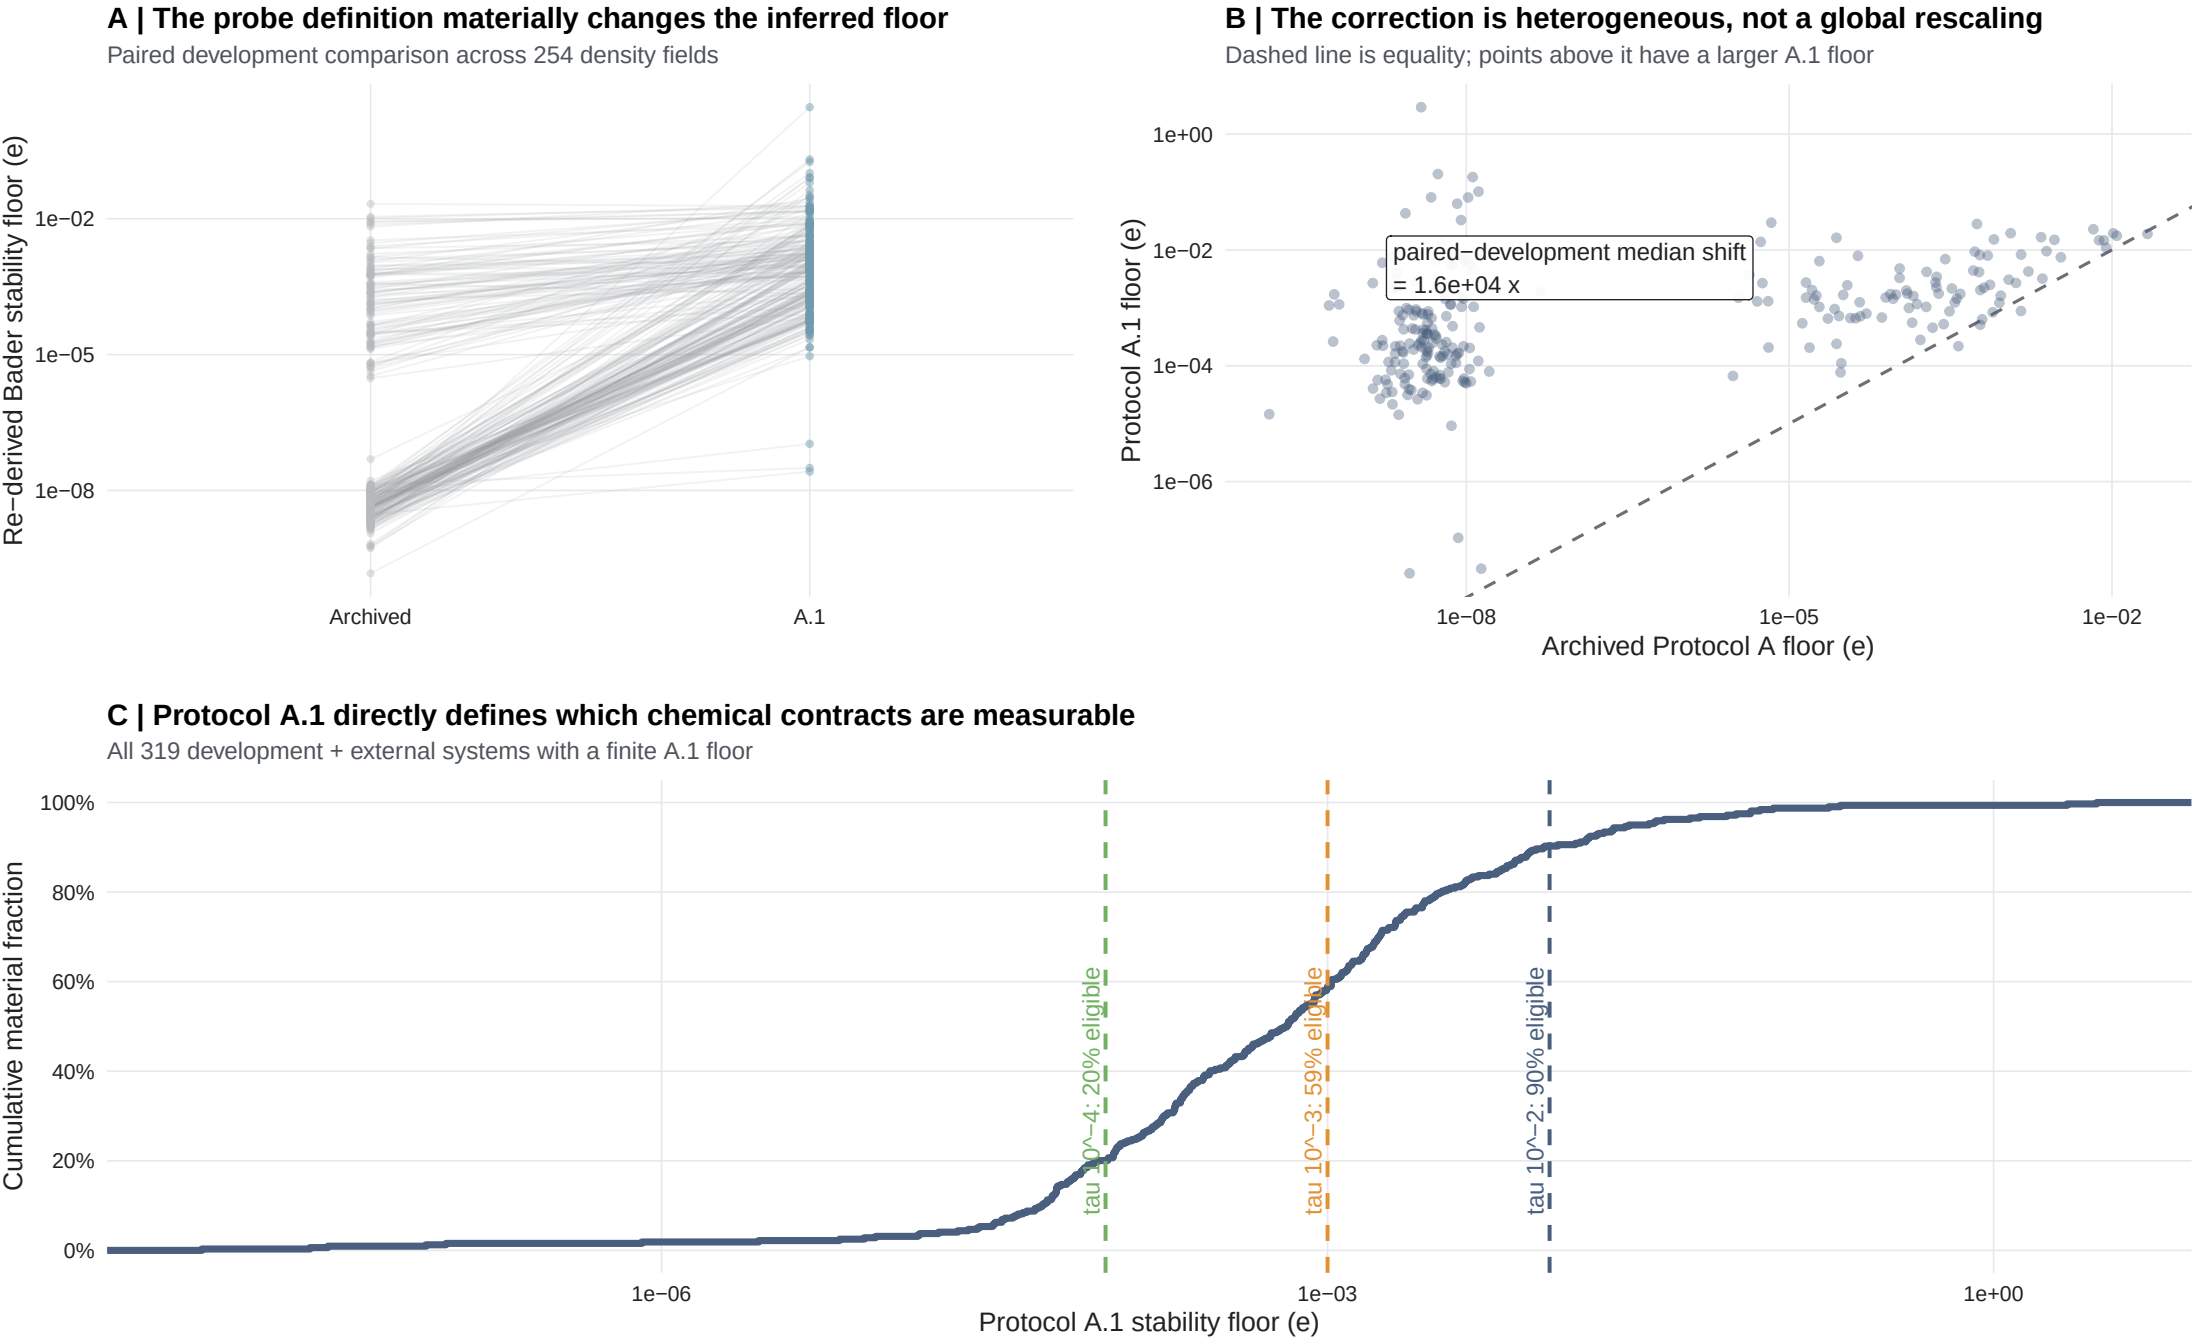

Figure 4 | Stability is a property of the observable and its measurement protocol

Protocol A.1 replaces the archived float32 round-trip probe with five fixed-seed uniform-noise probes at the same float32 L-infinity amplitude.

Protocol A remains archived and unchanged. Panels A–B compare the paired development subset for which both protocol outputs exist. Panel C uses all available A.1 systems and defines the eligibility ceiling used for headline certification.